Ontario Deposit return system

- The Beer Store has been involved in container deposit returns since 1927
- ON has regulations and contracts covering containers that everyone operating in the province must adhere to. For the Beer Store, some of this is managed under the TBS deposit return system program (for beer) and some under the Ontario Deposit Return Program (ODRP) for wine, spirits and coolers .
- The current steward for deposit-bearing alcohol containers is the Beer Store (tBS) which manages the deposit return system and must report to the provincial government on system performance on behalf of the beer producers in our system and also for the ODR program.
- The province-wide collection system consists of return-to-retail locations (including retail partners), empty bottle dealers, and tBS run distribution centres, with tBS retail sites handling the majority of the container and packaging volume.

Sorting/shipping requirements – why they're important

- The Beer Store is required to report separately on the two streams we manage – TBS and ODRP, in each case reporting by container type (bottles, cans, kegs, PET, as applicable)
- This segregation allows the Beer Store to track and report on return rates by category for both systems, among other data, as required by the provincial organizations we must report to
- The Beer Store relies on each point of return within the province to handle and sort returns as they come in to keep each stream separate, both for recording and for physical shipment

Do's and Don'ts

Do

Place clear products not sold at TBS, i.e., clear wine, liquor, and cooler bottles, including clear with plastic overlays, e.g., Malibu rum, Tequila Rose, and lightly tinted bottles, e.g., Bombay Sapphire Gin, Bacardi rum, etc. in Gaylords

Place coloured glass products not sold at TBS, including coloured or frosted wine, liquor and cooler bottles

Don't

Place proprietary refillable bottles, sold at TBS, e.g., Beau's, Sleeman, PC, etc., in Gaylords

Do's and Don'ts

Do

Accept all non-alcoholic beer containers for deposit refund, and place in Gaylords

Accept non-industry standard beer containers for deposit refund and place on separate skid.

Don't

Place mix industry standard or proprietary refillable containers on same skid (except top two rows).
