City employees become emergency managers

During Robert Barr's eight years with the city, his job has been to manage the museum and libraries. That all changed with the COVID pandemic. Many CBJ managers have had to pivot to become emergency operations coordinators.

Barr now spends most of his time working as planning section chief for the municipal emergency operations center (EOC). He focuses on the future of testing, risk mitigation, reporting, quarantine and isolation support and public information. The EOC has six primary objectives:

- Mitigate the spread
- Identify and mitigate economic and social disruption
- Identify and plan for vulnerable populations
- Assure continuity of local essential operations as appropriate
- Provide communication and education appropriate to event level
- Assure continuity of medical response capabilities

It's the giving season; here's how to help

The end of each year brings sharpened focus on helping others. Here are three ways to contribute:

Racheal MacLeod Christmas Dinner Box Project -

MacLeod, right, who died in 2014, led the annual effort.

Interact and Women of Moose, but cash for food is needed: <https://charity.gofundme.com/o/en/campaign/2020-racheal-macleod-christmas-dinner-box-project> (find the link on Clubrunner, too)

Glory Hall Gift Bags – You can make or buy items. See email from Candy Behrends with list of needs.

Gifts for Pioneer Home residents – Kirk Smith will provide a list.

Salvation Army – Not bell ringing? Send a check to 500 Willoughby.
