Wally West Studios Open Monday Nov. 4

Offering central British Columbians photographic services equal to the best in western Canada, the Wally West Studios will open Monday in the Ritz Kiefer Building.

The spacious and attractive studios provided by Wally West, recently of Edmonton, are as large as any in the West and capable of handling almost any size of commercial groups and extra large weddings.

His camera equipment and scientific dark room development equipment are of the latest manufacture.

Varied lighting equipment has been installed, suitable for handling commercial fashion and photographic advertisements.

On Mr. West's staff will be Joseph Lineham of Prince George.

Mr. West started in the photographic business in 1937 in Vancouver with the B.C. Photo Service and later opened a branch office in Victoria under the name of Sunday Photos. He transferred to Savannah Studios, leading photographers, and served with them until December of 1939. While in the Capital City he took the official photographs at the King and Queen's banquet at the Empress Hotel for Associated Screen News.
